Portfolio Commentary

Market

Geopolitical risks associated with a second Syrian missile strike and deteriorating Russian relations as well as concern that escalating trade tensions might lead to weakened global growth created volatility during April. However, better-than-feared Congressional testimony by Facebook CEO Mark Zuckerberg took pressure off the tech sector, which helped sentiment. The High Yield market reversed course from the prior two months and posted positive returns in April. WTI Crude Oil continued to rally, ending the month up $3.63/bbl (or 5.59%) to $68.57/bbl. The US Dollar Index was up 2.08% and the US Treasury curve slightly steepened with the 2-yr Treasury higher by 19 bps to 2.47% and the 10-yr Treasury yield increased 20 bps to 2.94%.

Technicals were positive as both loan funds and high yield mutual funds saw inflows for the month. Loans received inflows of $2.6bn while HY mutual funds saw inflows of $402mn, as tracked by Lipper and reported by Barclays. Bond new issuance decreased to $17.4bn in April, offset by $30.1bn in redemptions, leaving a positive technical as net supply was -$12.6bn, per Barclays. After pricing a one-year high amount in March the loan primary market slowed, pricing $68.9bn during the month, according to JP Morgan. The percentage of the HY bond market trading at distressed levels (below 70% of par) remained low at 2.3%; the comparable figure for the loan market (below 80% of par) was also low at 2.8%. The par-weighted twelve-month HY bond default rate was 1.56% at month-end, per BofA Merrill Lynch, and the loan market par-weighted trailing default rate decreased to 2.35%, per JP Morgan.

High Yield once again outperformed broad-based equities as the ICE BofAML US High Yield Index returned 0.67% for the month. Senior floating rate loans had another positive month as the Credit Suisse Leveraged Loan Index returned 0.49%. The YTW for the HY index decreased 15 bps to 6.24% and spreads decreased 34 bps to 344 bps. Returns were driven by increasing risk as the BB, B and CCC bond sub-indices returned 0.21%, 0.95% and 1.43%, respectively. The Automotive sector was again the bottom performer, returning -1.69%, while Telecommunications outperformed and returned 2.64% for the month. Across risk types (defined by duration and yield to worst), the highest-yielding, most speculative part of the market led while longer duration and more rate-sensitive parts of the market lagged in tandem with the move in rates. High yield outperformed large cap equities, represented by the S&P 500's 0.38% return, as well as investment grade corporate bonds, represented by the ICE BofAML US Corporate Index's -0.85% return, but underperformed small cap equities, represented by the Russell 2000's 0.86% return.

Strategy

SKY Harbor Global Funds—US Short Duration High Yield Fund posted a solid return in April, capturing over 85% of the broader US high yield market (as defined by the ICE BofAML US High Yield Index) return for the month on a gross-of-fee basis and excluding currency impact. By risk segmentation (defined by yield and duration to worst), the most speculative (defined as yielding in excess of 9%) and longer duration segments led performance. All sectors posted positive returns for the month, led by Insurance while Retail lagged. By rating, lower quality led again this month with Triple-Cs outperforming Single-Bs and Double-Bs.

The YTW on the Fund decreased 3 bps to 5.14% and represented 82% of the broad market yield at month-end. The duration-to-worst was 2.0, or 48% of the broad market duration. The average coupon of 6.52% was down slightly from last month's figure but was 20 bps above the average coupon in the broad market. Exclusive of cash, Fund holdings (363 issues, representing 263 issuers) comprised 34% bonds with maturities of less than three years and 66% in longer maturities but trading to expected early take-outs inside this three-year period. This overweight to the latter group continues to show that we find greater value in the yield-to-call opportunities. Nevertheless, we do value the relative price stability the short maturity group can offer in volatile periods in the market. Overall credit quality decreased slightly in the Fund: at month-end Double-B rated holdings represented 34.4% of the portfolio, Single-Bs were 54.4% and Triple-Cs were 9.1%.

Outlook

Despite continued geopolitical events causing persistent volatility, we maintain a consistent view of high yield market risks and opportunities and see little evidence to change our positioning at this point. Our greatest conviction remains around strong corporate fundamentals. We have acknowledged that valuations are fair and rising rates present potential risks, but believe high yield could have further spread compression as markets return focus to strength of the US economy and company growth trends. Near-term fundamentals of high yield issuers remain strong and we expect returns to benefit from the market income opportunity and below-average default losses so long as risks outside the high yield market remain in balance (e.g., trade wars do not escalate, etc.). As a result, our positioning has not substantially changed over the last month although we have been opportunistic purchasers of better-quality, rate-sensitive risk that has repriced during the market selloff.

We continue to believe our Short Duration High Yield portfolios are well positioned to take advantage of any potential volatility or curve repricing associated with more aggressive rate assumptions. Natural turnover, created by calls, tender and maturities, should be high considering the large amount of front-end maturities and expected near-term calls held in the portfolio, which will allow us to continue to optimize the portfolio as the market environment evolves.

To generate a high level of current income while also experiencing lower volatility than the broader high yield market. The Fund principally invests in US below-investment-grade corporate debt securities that are expected to be redeemed through maturity, call or other corporate action within three years. The strategy seeks to capture the current income of the high yield market with substantially less volatility through the consistency of monthly returns and reinvestment.
